

Dr Richard Goddard is a lecturer in medieval history at the University of Nottingham. He is Director of the Centre for Urban Culture at the University. He writes on and researches later medieval English towns and is the author of Lordship and Medieval Urbanisation: Coventry 1043-1355 (Woodbridge, 2004). He is currently writing Towns and Trade in Later Medieval England.